TUESDAY, SEPT. 11, 1855.

The junior of the Democrat, in the leading article in that paper of yesterday, explodes like a raging bottle of pop. One might judge from the sound, that the Irish bullet in him was fired off by the explosion, though we have not heard of its killing anybody. He represents, that, after an absence of some time, he has just returned to the city. Why, he returned a week ago. Still he may not mean to lie about this matter. From all accounts, his habitual condition has been such since he came back that he may well be supposed not to know where he was, to be unconscious of place and time, to be ignorant whether he was in Louisville or Chicago, in America or in Europe, in the body or out of the body, in this world or in the next. Of course his testimony as to where he has been or where he is is simply good for nothing.

The junior talks about our having been "kick ed and cuffed on every side." The presumption is that he has never been kicked except on one "side," aud our respect for our readers will hardly allow us to say what "side" that was. We suppose, that, when he speaks of our bring "kicked and cuffed," he speaks figurativelythat he means to say we have been kicked and cuffed constructively-means to say that Sag Nicht editors and Sag Nicht stump-speakers have "kicked and cuffed" us with pen and tongue at invisible distances. We have no idea in the world how many such "kickings and cuffings" we have had, though we have no doubt the number is very considerable. But if any one thinks he can give the name of the man, living or dead, that ever laid a finger upon us in enmity without either apologising and asking pardon immediately afterwards or quitting the city at less than a half-hour's notice, let him give it; and, if any one imagines that he himself make the kicking and cuffing experiment upon us and enjoy good health afterwards, we invite him to begin as soon as he can consistently with his perfect convenience. But let him try to be sober at the time, for we should be sorry to have to hurt a drunken man. The Junior doesn't actually say that his Irish friends didn't shoot him on bloody Monday "just in the place where honor's lodged," but he meanly insinuates that it isn't true. Undoubtedly it is true. We hope therefore that nobody will be so cruel as to kick him, let him be as insulting as he may. To kick the poor fellow where he has a gunshot wound would be inhuman. His calamity is so notorious that even his political friends deem it worthy of hoping an airing would sober him, let him take mention at their public festivals. In the speech a ride, but he returned after a while, a great of the late Sag-Nicht candidate for Attorney General, made at the Powell dinner on Saturday and reported in the Sag-Nicht Courier of yeswe find this touching allusion to the suf ought to be received, in the seat of his breeches." back-yard." "Who is it?" said Mr. C. "Sup-Of course the young orator, in saying that all pose you go and look at him," was the reply.the seat, meant to console the poor fellow by king him think that he was wounded exactly where a good and brave Sag-Nicht should always be. The doctrine must be very comforting to him, for there is but one part of him that a Know-Nothing will ever be able to get a fair shot at. We may expect that he will hereafter, whenever recounting his deeds of valor to an admiring Sag-Nicht throng, slip down his pantaloons, exh.bit his wound as proudly as ever an old war-worn veteran exhibited one in froat, and quote with exultation the language of his friend Woolley at the Powell dinner.

The Junior undertakes to give an account of his famous call at our office. He confirms substantially our account, and, where he deviates from it, he deviates just so much from the truth. He did not request Mr. Osborne to tell us that we were a "damned scoundrel," as would have been any great courage in sending such a message by another when he could have five hundred opportunities a day of saying what he dared to us in person. But his visit to our office was exactly as we have described it. He burst into our counting-room, pale, fierce, and quivering, with his hand upon his pistol, and inquired for us, and, on being told from us that we that he couldn't wait, that he was going to the country, but that he would see us at another time and would settle with us in his own way. He retreated precipitately, and, if the pistol picked up soon afterwards in front of our office n't his, we can't guess at its owner. We hold it as a trophy of our success in scaring a man, but, if it is not called for or sent for soon, we shall offer it for sale at public auction on the spot where it was picked up. If, in the mean- of Know-Nothings, and never again speak of the time, that Irish bullet shall be extracted from Order except with gratitude and affection. It the junior's rump, we shall knock down the should remember that its life, its reprieve from the competition in bidding among persons anxious to increase their collections of curiosities will realize us a very handsome little sum for these hard times. Now if the junior wasn't scared, badly frighened, awfully appalled, we should like to know why he couldn't spend fifteen little minutes to do the dreadful deed he wanted to be thought to have in contemplation; and why he ran at the bare notification of on appearance as if he had seen fifty guns pointed at what his friend Woolley calls the "seat of his breeches;" and why that pistol was dropped; and why, after saying he would see us again and settle matters with us in his own way, he never sought to see us again although he was in the city the whole afternoon of the same day and for several days afterwards and is in the city now. The world can bear us witness that we never make up our minds lightly or upon insufficient evidence, and that, whenever an opinion is to be formed, we weigh facts and circumstances with the most scrupulous care; but we are entirely willing to stake our exalted reputation for candor and sound judgment upon the expression of a deep and abiding conviction, which nought but a miracle can change, that the junior was fright-ned well nigh to death, and, that he hasn't got over his fright since. We suppose many of our readers saw his grandiloquent account of the wondrous chivalry with which he deported himself at the Eighth ward polls on bloody Monday, defying and keeping at bay, as he would have folks think, a whole phalanx of Know-Nothings; but we have it on the best authority, that, in the very midst of his movements there, he threw himself upon his Masonry for protection -- that he gave the grand signal of distress-that, in his horrible fright, he actually sought safety at the hands of "A SECRET, OATH-BOUND SOCIETY"-and that he said with white lips afterwards that if he hadn't been a Mason he would have been a dead man. If the quintessence of a thousand sheeps' livers and calves' plucks and rabbits' gizzards and pigeons' lights can make the heart of a non, he may be a very chivalric fellow. If he ever again abuses "secret, oath-bound societies" after having, in the hour of his direst terror. fled for protection under the wings of one like a scared chicken under the wings of a motherly the most ungrateful thing on earth.

We are not disposed to judge harshly of the acts of the junior, for many of them appear to plate of Bartlett pears exhibited during the be the result of an infirmity that he perhaps can't overcome. Half the time, yes, threefourths of the time, he hardly knows what he does. He is a desperately hard drinker. He was the drunkest man in the city on the election day, and his throat is daily a maelstrom of all sorts of bad liquors. No temperance mosquito ever lights on his nose or could without violating the pledge. He wasn't in a condition to get to the ex-Governor's dinner on Saturday, although his friend Woolley took it for granted he was there; and it devolves on us to explain his absence. He went badly intoxicated to Batman's livery stable in the afternoon and ordered his horse and buggy, the same horse and buggy that had made such capital time in bearing him from our office. The gentlemen at the stable, that celebrated shot, where all Know-Nothing shots him, "there is a friend of yours out in the Know-Nothing shots, like that fired at the Mr. C. walked back, and there, right on a huge Junior of the Democrat, ought to be received in pile of green horse-manure, stretched out like a dead dog or a mass of carrion, lay the miserable junior. Defiled from head to foot with about an equal mixture of the horse-manure and his own, his red and bloated face so covered with vomit as to resemble a half-done beef-steak smothered in scrambled eggs, he lay so motionless that Mr. C., fearing he was dead, put his ear, in spite of the concatenation of stenches and lower orders of vegetable life, these stands stinks, close down to his mouth to hear if he was breathing. Hearing a low faint breath, evidently almost the last, he called to one of the gentlemen to know why they did not remove the wretched creature to some other place .-Mr. M., the gentleman appealed to, replied that the fellow had been drinking so long that they had lost all manner of sympathy for him. "But," said Mr. C., "he must be removed, else he will never wake; the ammonia, exhaled from the horse-manure, will kill Mr. Osborne himself can testify. And, if he him in less than two hours; he is nearly had done so, the reader can judge whether there | dead now." With some difficulty, the disgusting task of removing the foul mass of ordure and beastliness was effected; and the thing was laid in a little recess of the stable used as a sleeping-niche for the negroes of the concern. Word was sent to the Democrat office that the thing was there, and that it must be taken away, but the Democrat office returned word that it must remain till it got sober. Mr. C. would see him in just fifteen minutes, he said passed by again two hours afterwards, and, holding his nose, peeped in, and there the thing still lay as unconscious as at first, and very likely it lies there yet. We presume its article in yesterday's Democrat is something that it threw up, vomited, disgorged, while lying in the back-yard. But, whatever it may forget hereafter, it ought at least to bear in mind that its life was saved last Saturday night by a member of the American party, one of the terrible Order pistol and bullet together, fully expecting that | the Devil, has been secured twice in one little | month by "secret, oath-bound societies"-first by the Masons in a Know-Nothing peril, and secondly by the Know-Nothings in a horse-dung peril, and devote the rest of its existence to the eulogy of "secret, oath-bound societies."

If any of our fellow citizens think that we have misrepresented or in the slightest degree exaggerated the affair of Saturday night (one of), let them inquire either of Mr. C. or of Mr. M. and Mr. B. at the livery stable. And, be it remembered, the fellow, of whose condition we have spoken, is the mail agent of the U. S. Government for the city of Louisville, the personage employed at a high salary by the Postmaster General to superintend the transportation of letters and papers from this point in all directions! How long, oh! Mr. Postmaster General, will you abuse our patience?

KENTUCKY HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY .- The exhibition of this society on Saturday completed the series of weekly displays for the present season and brought to a close a succession of entertainments that have proved to be decidedly popular and that have been so well conducted as not to have given birth to a single incident calculated to give offense to the most delicate sense of propriety. We congratulate the managers of this concern on account of their exceeding good fortune.

The leading varieties of the pear were the same that were shown at the meeting of the previous Saturday, and it is sufficient praise to say that there was no falling off in quantity or appearance. Indeed Bartletts are still growing better; two specimens exhibited on Saturday were respectively 113 and 121 inches in circumference. Whilst on the subject of pears, we may say that we have closely watched the contest between the dwarf and standard cultivators of the pear for the mastery in size. Three weeks ago the first Bartlett appeared upon the tables, equal to 11 inches in circumference. These fruits were grown on standards. On the following Saturday the advocates of the dwarf system of growing the pear rallied and produced fruit 111 inches in circumference, fruits which exceeded all others on show by at least half an inch. At the next and last meeting those very large fruits from standards were brought forward, which leaves the advantage hen, we shall certainly be obliged to think him for the present on the side of standards. We should not be impartial reporters however if we did not add that the most beautifully colored season were grown on dwarf trees.

In peaches we thought we still could discover improvement in both size and appearance over the samples of last week. Indeed we thought Crawford's late Melocoton and Leopold models of a fine peach-whilst Columbia, large Melocoton, and several others were showy and well grown. By the way it seems to us something strange that a peach capable of making such a noise in circles where it has been shown as this Leopold has done now for several seasons (half a dozen having sold on Saturday at the biddings for seven dollars and fifty cents) should never have gotten into the books. In searching for its history some amateurs have looked in vain through the pages of every American work. All that is now known of it here is gathered from the diary of our friend the President of the Kendeal drunker for the trip. Soon after dark, that tucky Horticultural Society, who is well known is about half-past seven, Mr. C., a highly re- to have made considerable efforts at collecting spectable gentleman, reported to be a leading from all quarters the best fruits in cultivation. Know-Nothing, was passing the stable when one His diary shows that in making out, in the Fall ferer: "And here is that other knight who received of the men in it, a well-known citizen, said to of 1844, a large list of desirable accessions, the catalogue of the Kenricks at Newton, near Boston, was drawn upon for this Leopold and some other sorts-and in the same diary of the following Spring, in recording a list of the trees actually received, this Leopold and three other capital sorts, viz: Bullard's Seedling, Hill's Rodman Cling, and Whitehead's new Red Heath are set down as received from Kenrick.

For some weeks, we have noticed in the exhibition hall several rustic flower-vases, gotten up by a German gardener with considerable taste. To those curious in the study of the would prove a treasure. They are composed of greater or smaller branches of trees hunted up with care and matched with artistic taste, every branch no doubt having been chosen with a view to swell the rich collection of mosses and lichens which he set out to congregate. We should like to see those stands appear at the annual fair, filled with appropriate flowers. They deserving of a gratuity.

We have been requested to state that a resolution passed by the executive committee on Saturday recommends that exhibitors do, as far as convenient, exhibit their tender fruits under glass. It will, they think, be difficult to keep up the beauty and interest of the show without extra care for so long a period as three days.

SACHUSETTS SINCERE? — If the people of Massachusetts had the unquestioned power to abolish slavery in this country, and if a vote were taken in two months from this time whether they would exercise that power or not, we believe they would decide against abolition. We arrive at this conclusion merely from believing that the people of Massachusetts possess a full share of that saving knowledge, that hard common sense, that thriftiness of character, which would deter them from sacrificing their own immediate, well-established interests, paralyizing their own industry, and ruining their own commerce and navigation merely to establish an abstract proposition or carry out a theory. They would count the cost of the philanthropic luxury and find it too expensive.

The abolition of slavery involves the question whether the wants of mankind can be supplied after slave labor has ceased to exist? Wherever the experiment has been made of substituting free for slave labor in low latitudes, it has signally failed; and the most enlightened opinion is, that it will always fail. At all events, it is the duty of those, who seek the abolition of slavery, to show that free labor is capable of supplying the demand for cotton, sugar, rice, tobacco, hemp, &c., if their favorite scheme should be carried out to its full consummation. We have the testimony of the most eminent political economists of Great Britain, to the effect that a failure of the supply of cotton for even one year would ruin the mass of the people of that country. It would stop the manufactories, throw out of employment two millions of people, and cause thousands of ships to rot in the docks. The same things would happen in New England, though on a smaller scale,

A Boston paper some weeks ago gave an account of a village in Massachusetts called Holyoke, that derives all its importance from its cotton manufactures. Here is what is said of this

There are three cotton mills in Holyoke, employing 458 males and 1,0.5 females; and durfug the year ending the ist of June, 1855, 4,257,395 pounds of cutton were consumed, 12,517,119 yards or 7,12 miles of cloth manufactured, the gross value of which was $1,161,178. Besides this, 108,000 pounds of yarn, valued at $20,000, were made. During the same time $325,000 worth of machinery was manufactured, giving employment to 300 hands. The quantity of stock used in the paper mill was 175 tons, quantity of paper manufactured 125 tons, and value of the manufactured article $50,000. Value of cotton and woolen cards manufactured, $30,240; of piano and card wire, $14,000; of power loom harnesses, $8,000; and of power loom reeds, $1,200.

We have here the evidence that Holyoke is a thriving place, and that its inhabitants are busy, industrious, prosperous people, whose prosperity arises from the application of their labor to the products of slave labor. It appears that 1,493 persons derive their support exclusively from the proceeds of the employment which the manufacture of raw cotton affords. At a reasonable estimate, each of the persons so employed supports two others-composed of children, aged, or infirm parties. This would make the grand total of individuals sustained by cotton, 4,479. We find, also, that 4,267,985 pounds of raw cotton were manufactured during the year ending on the 1st of June, 1855. making seven and a half miles of cotton cloth, valued at $1,161,178; 108,000 pounds of yarn were also spun during the same period. Flowing directly from the manufacture of cottonfor there would have been no necessity for machinery without cotton-we find that $325,000 worth of machinery was made, giving work to 300 hands. Assuming that our former calculation is correct, and that each of those hands supported two other persons, we have 900 persons, which, added to the number above given, 4,479, a complete total of 5,379 ht maintained and supported directly and indirectly by fabricating the slave grown staple of the Southern States. The other branches of indusone or two hundred additional persons.

The probabilities are, that Holyoke is the offensive character. They probably speak of Southern slaveholders as atrocious villains who violate God's law, disgrace themselves, and deslave-produced cotton and fabricate it into ma- ing hand may find him. terials from which they make great profit and become rich; and, pretending to see no harm in this, they complacently thank the Lord that they are not like the slave-owners. If these people were as righteous as they affect to be, they would perceive that they, the consumers, are equally culpable with the producers of these slave made articles. The receiver of stolen goods, knowing them to be such, is as bad as the thief; and these fabricators of slave products are as bad as would be highly unique, and in our opinion well the producers. It is clearly apparent that Holyoke would be nothing without slave-grown cotton. The same may be said about every manufacturing city and village in the State. Without slave-grown cotton Lowell would wither into nothingness sooner than did Jonah's gourd. So would Lawrence. So would innumerable other affluent and improving points. Nearly one hundred millions of invested, and now profitable capital, would become worth less, and thousands and tens of thousands, if not hundreds of thousands of people, would be thrown out of employment, should on event they seem most desirous to bring about - the abolition of slavery-be accomplished.

Is there any one who believes then, that, with these known results, this certain ruin staring them in the face, the people of Massachusetts would sacrifice themselves to destroy African slavery? Not they! The magnitude of the responsibility would appal them, and they would shrink from it with horror. Political Abolitionism may do for politicians to play for power with; it may afford themes for preachers to exted sensibility; it may do for old men and wo- could slip back the bolt that secured the door,

Is the Anti-Slavery Sentiment of Mas- | men to talk about over their cups of brandy or tea; but, when people are called on to decide whether they will sacrifice their industrial pursuits, destroy their commerce, and dispense with the comforts of life to accomplish the abolition of negro slavery they will refuse to indulge their philanthropy at any such cost. Let it be published in Massachusetts that slavery was to be abolished, and with it all the cotton mills were to be closed, and straightway the good people of that blessed land would view slavery in a new light; it would become just and righteous, and the blessings of the institution would be argued in the daily journals, preached from the pulpits, and taught in the schools. Slavery would soon be in the ascendant.

Philanthropy is well enough in its way, but the necessity of being supplied with food and clothing is generally recognized by people as paramount to the indulgence in humane philosophy. Like other luxuries, philanthrophy can be indulged in by the masses only when it can be had at a reasonable cost.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MACTERS.

The river has commenced falling rapidly .-Last evening there were not more than $4 feet water in canal, 6 feet 4 inches in the pass, and 51 feet on the rocks on the falls. We have nothing later from St. Louis than the dispatch published yesterday morning.

The Cumberland river was falling on Saturday evening with 3 feet water on the shoals.

The renowned packet Rainbow is off for Henperson and Evansville punctually this evening. Passengers will be accommodated in the best style and will meet with every attention.

The Peter Tellon is advertised to leave this

By telegraph we learn that the Tishomingo left Memphis on Sunday for this port. She will arrive probably to-morrow and return to Memphis on Friday.

Capt. T. H. Brierly, formerly of the Polar Star, in connection with Major Barrow and T. B. Kercheval, of Brunswick, have contracted for a new boat to be built at Madison, Indiana. The boat, when built, will run as a regular packet between St. Joseph and Bluff City. The hull will be 180 feet long, beam 30 feet. Her engines will have 21 inch cylinders and 6 feet stroke.

The row tug Hornet left Pittsburg on Thursday with seven barges, containing 42,000 bushels of coal; the Alex. Wilson also took out eight barges, containing 72,000 bushels. There were three pair of floating boats and two barges for the Cincinnati and Louisville market.

The Sultana arrived from New Orleans last evening. To Mr. Kerby, her attentive clerk, we are indebted for favors. Also, to the officers of the Republic, who forwarded us a package of papers from Cairo.

A new boat built for the Messrs. Meeker, at Mobile, called the Czar, has just commenced running on the Alabama river. She only draws 9 inches light. Her length of keel is 184 feet; length over all 194 feet; 33 feet beam; floor 28 feet; depth of hold 64 feet.

The Highflyer arrived at too late an hour last evening to start back. She leaves this morning for St. Louis and is a most excellent boat.

> We have neglected ere this to notice an omission made in our paper last week in the paragraph in the liquor cases. We spoke of all the counsel in these cases before the city court, except our friend, Cant. Rousseau, who is associated with Mr. Elliott, the city attorney, in the prosecution. Capt. TUESDAY EVENING, SEPT. 11, 1855.

PENNSYLVANIA HONERS .- The constitution of the United States declares that no person shall be "deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." One Passmore Williamson, aided by a gang of black ruffians, did forcibly and without any process of law deprive Col. Wheeler of his property in three slaves, and he added to his violence the crime of perjury, for which he was imprisoned by the judge and is now in jail. For this notable conduct, Williamson has received the nomination for the office of canal commissioner, an office of honor and responsibility, one in which, if he be elected to it, large amounts of money will be at his disposal.

He who steals negroes, we think, would steal money if it could be done with equal impunity. We congratulate the Keystone State on this specimen of the people selected to hold office in that State, and we suggest that the remaining candidates for the Republican State ticket may appropriately be taken from the penitentiaries. Should there be a deficiency in the Pennsylvania prisons, a sufficient number of kiduappers may probably be found in the prisons of the slave States.

PROFESSOR OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES .-This distinguished lecturer commences a series of lectures to-night, in the Baptist Church on the northwest corner of Walnut and Fourth streets, on some of the English poets of the nineteenth century. The fame of this favorite son of song, universally recognized as one of the most brilliant stars in the galaxy of American poetry, is so widely diffused throughout the country that it is scarcely necessary for us to do more than to call attention to the hour, the place, and the fact of his lecture.

The subject of the lecture to-night is Wordsworth, not woman's worth, as the Journal erroneously published it this morning. Dr. Holmes has peculiar gifts for elucidating and illustrating the varied powers and excellencies of Wordsworth's poetry, and those who may honor themselves by hearing Dr. Holmes to-night will feel that they have enjoyed one of the noblest intelmind can bestow. We hope lectual feasts to see the house well filled on this occasion.

THE SILVER LAKE SNAKE. - The Perry Times devotes nine columns of a late number to facts and stories concerning the aquatic monster seen by people of that village. It states that a joint stock company has been organized. with a capital of $1,200, who are taking advicwith regard to the means of capturing the creature. R. H. Smith is President of the "Experiment Company," R. C. Mordoff Treasurer, and N. H. Page Secretary.

The company have constructed large hooks attached to cables, which they intend to bait with live birds, and in that way put a hook in the jaws of the leviathan. An observatory is to be constructed on the shore, and constant watch kept. Other parties are in pursui of the nondescript, with intent to capture and exhibit him. Several shot were fired at the snake on Wednesday by persons watching for it.

THE YELLOW FEVER UP THE RIVER .- The Concordia Intelligencer, of the 31st ult., says:

We are sorry to announce that some twenty or more cases have occurred at Harrisonburg, 30 miles distant, in Catahoula parish, brought thither by the Black river packets, and that four or five deaths have occurred, some carried down to the vicinity of Trinity before death.

Port Hudson is said to be depopulated by the flight of the residents from the fever, which was brought there last week. Wherever there has been unobstructed communication with N. Orleans, in all the towns below Natchez, the miles below Natchez, a few cases have occur-

ILLICIT LOVE AND ITS RESULT - MARY MORIARTY. - We visited this young woman yes terday morning in the city prison, where she has been incarcerated since she dealt the deadly Sheeban, her seducer, on Saturday night last. Mary is below the medium size of her countrywomen, is handsome, seems to be amiable, and certainly warm-hearted. She told a "round, unvarnished tale," and, as she said, wished to conceal no part of it. A few months after she arrived in Memphis (two years since) she became acquainted with Sheeban, a countryman of her own, and professing the same religious belief. He was the first love, and to him she sacrificed herself, in expectation of a happy union through long years

Time passed on; she entreated, begged, and prayed that he would fullfil his promise and keen her shame from the world-but all was of no avail. The intercession of the clergy was called in, but no religious or moral suasion could induce the heartless man to make reparation for his deep and damnable sin. In the course of time a child—his child—was born, and he was again conjured to take this injured woman to his bosom, if only for the sake of his own blood, but still he refused. Mary, since the birth of her child, has lived a virtuo life, occasionally seeing Sheeban, who seemed poor girl that he would eventually marry her, at the same time taking from the same time taking from the poor creature portion of her hard earnings-and it was only few days before his death that she gave him $10 to pay for his monthly board.

He appointed a meeting on Saturday night last, whither she went prepared to act on her defence, should he, as she had every reason to believe, attempt force in urging his unholy pas-According to her account, he took her by the arm and endeavored to turn her from the sidewalk to the rear of the stable; she resisted; he continued his efforts, and the wronged girl, finding that she must again submit to his licentious embraces, unless she freed herself, drew the knife and stabbed him to the heart. THE NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH SUFFERERS. -Day after day accounts reach us of the most deplorable, heart-rending condition of the people of Norfolk and Portmouth. Death in his most hideous aspect has taken complete possession of those beautiful cities, lately densely populated with a generous, chivalrous, hospitable people. The plague has seized upon them; the residents are dying by fifties and hundreds. The living are unable to bury the dead. All who were able have fled, but thousands still remain without the means or the ability either to get away from those festering charnel houses, or to support themselves there. Many noble souls have gone thither with true Christian courage and charity, to bury the dead and relieve the distressed. Relief has been extended to the living sufferers by the kind-hearted citizens of all the principal cities of the Union except Louisville. It is not necessary for us to do more than suggest this matter to our citizens; we know that they will promptly come forward to aid in bestowing charity so well, so peculiarly deserved. The following card has been handed to us for publication. We heartily invite our citizens to respond to the appeal and be present at the meeting at the Court House to-night, ready to contribute soothing consolation and material aid to the Norfolk and Portsmouth sufferers:

The undersigned, sympathizing deeply with the sufferers from the prevailing epidemic at Norfolk and Portsmouth, and believing that a like feeling pervades this community, propose that a meeting be held at the court-house this evening for the purpose of giving expression thereto and devising some effectual means for the relief of the distressed in those cities.— They earnestly invite the attendance and cooperation of their fellow-citizens:

D. S. Benedict & Son, Casseday & Hopkins, Rich'd Atkinson, Brady & Davies. C C. Spencer, J. R. Montgomery, Virgil McKnight Tucker, Brannin, & Co, Thustin & Ely, John M. Stokes & Son, Ward & Carey, T. C. Coleman, M. Cody, Bent & Duvall, Wm. F. Pettit, A. L. Shetwell & Son Wm. Gay, G. L. Douglass Ward & Nash, S. S. Monk, Johnson, Martin, & Co., W. H. Stokes, G. L. Douglass, E. P. King. Jacob Keller,

We congratulate the good people of Flemingsburg (bereaved as they have been by the late visitation of cholera of three of their medical practitioners) on the settlement in their midst of Dr. James Durrett, late of this city. Dr. Durrett has been favorably known to this community for several years, and many of our citizens would bear willing and ample testimony to his high merit, both as a physician and a gentteman. Our best wishes accompany him to his new home, and we feel assured that if his worth is duly appreciated he cannot fail to win success.

SUMMARY CONCERNING THE CROPS.—Reports are daily coming in of the abundance of the crops. The Southern section of the country speaks particularly of the large yield of nearly all kinds of grain. Alabama—the crops of corn and wheat are unusually large; cotton good. Georgia—the largest wheat and corn crop ever known; cotton promising. Louisiana-an average yield, drought having somewhat affected the crops. Texas - corn and wheat abundant. Mississippi-corn and cotton very promising wheat abundant. Florida—a heavy yield of all kinds of crops. Tennessee—20 per cent over an average of wheat, rye, corn, and oats. Kentucky-largely over an average of all kinds of crops. Indiana-grain better than ever before known. Missouri—the same report. Ohio—reports not so promising, but an average yield.

In North Carolina, Iowa, and Wisconsin the prospects of an abundant harvest were never kn wu to be as good. In Illinois, the report from all sections of the State is of an abundant yield of every description of produce-wheat, corn, and cats largely. Same from Michigan. In Maryland every county is returned, and only one reports the crops of wheat as being poor, the others a good yield of that and every other crop, including tobacco and fruit and hay. From Virginia, the wheat is of an excellent yellow fever has been introduced, as well as in Vicksburg above. At the wharfboat landing at the mouth of Red river, and at Fort Adams, 40 from reliable sources, and, with this unexampled about the proposed for the part wear. pled abundance, the prospect for the next year is very promising for business. Some estimate the aggregate wheat crop at 142,000,000 bushels. Others at 200,000,000. Either would l ave a respectable overplus of the amount required for home consumption, which is set down at 125,000,000 bushels.

Savannah Republican.

Alarming Account of the Crops on the Contin-ent.—The news from Germany in relation to the grain crops is of a very unfavorable character. The supplies at this time of the year are usually very small, and the prices are not high, but ac-counts from East Prussia, Pomerania, Silesia, Mecklenburg, and Holstein have caused great excitement. Rye will give hardly one-half the average. The wheat has been so much injured by the rust that the entire loss of it is feared, while the disease of potatoes has been of so great extent that the worst is to be expec-The stock of old wheat is nearly exhausted. Under these circumstances prices in all the Continental markets, with the exception of Holland, hav; considerably advanced. lin, Stetin, and Cologne, for several days, holders had entirely withdrawn from the market. Rape oil has also rapidly advanced, and in the Rhen ish markets higher prices were paid than for the last fifty years.

License Law in Illinois .- Judge Breeze, at the present term of the Madison Circuit Court. decided that the law of the last session of the Legislature, entitled "an act for the suppression of intemperance, and to amend chapter 30 of the Statutes," repealed all laws authori-Revised zing the granting of license for the sale of spirituous liquors in Illinois. This Prohibitory Law was submitted to the people of the State for their acceptance or rejection, at a recent election, and they rejected it by a large majority. It seems, however, that its passage had the effect of repealing all license laws on the subject, and the largest liberty is to be allowed to all who may wish to sell liquor.

New Way of Getting a Watch .- The Buffalo Commercial says that on Friday evening a gen tleman from that city, going East, passed ra-pidly through the depot with an umbrella under his arm with the handle forward. He came may condemn this poor woman, but we believe her to have done a righteous deed. The man who can ruthlessly destroy the peace of mind of a confiding woman, to say nothing of the shame and misery he heaps on the heads of her relatives, should carry his life in his hand, to be given when called for. If her story be true, no other court than that of the Almighty can pass sentence of punishment on Miss Moriarty.

The total of applications for land warrants up to the 7th was 211,700. The number issued was 26,276, of which 593 were to soldiers of the revolution or their widows-72 to the former and 521 to the latter. Eight of the soldiers and four of the widows are above 100 years old.

To the Editors of the Louisville Bulletin:

Mt. Washington, Ky., Aug. 8, 1855. GENTLEMEN: The contest of political strife has gradually subsided. In looking over the result, we find that there is an overwhelming majority in favor of increasing the school-tax The friends of education may justly rejoice It is an earnest of future prosperity that no rising or falling of political parties can retard.

Having so nobly responded to the call, our citizens may justly expect an equivalent.

The standard of education should be raised.

Our common-schools should furnish the means for a liberal, practical education. Before the meeting of the next Legislature this subject should be thoroughly discussed in the public journals. Means should be taken to infuse an active, living principle into the system. It is now little more than a dead formality, observed merely to draw the "school-fund."

We are justly proud of our orators, states-men, and soldiers, whose fame has shed an unfading lustre on our State. May we soon have equal reason to boast of our common-school system and the universal intelligence of our

zine, we find an excellent article (Mr. Warren's Blackstone) in which the writer recommends the study of law to the common-schools of England. It is a subject of paramount impor-tance. We quote from page 202: "In that educational controversy with which England rings from side to side, this teaching of the law has not received the prominence it deserves. While jurisprudence presents problems for the highest intellects to solve, yet there is no school room in the country to the serves. try so humble in which the first elements of English law might not be taught. Whilst the sanction of religion will never be overlooked either by us or by any man living in a christian land, still the simplest intellect can perceive that human law, like human industry or human science, has its own great ends to answer, can be studied alike by a school room of Presbyterian or Episcopalian or Arian children. Something, we say, might be taught to the poor est and simplest scholars, if it were only a list of offences, with the punishment assigned to them, giving the reason why they are offenses and teaching every child to associate disgrace with the infringement of a law. Here at all events is a ground on which all religious parties might unite. Here there can be no disagreement To obey the law is pronounced by all to be the great comprehensive duty of every man; to learn what that duty comprehends, must surely be necessary and wise. Even those who desire change in the law, admit that obedience to the existing statute is the duty of the citizen. Not to admit this would be to declare themselves incapable of living in human society; for unless we can submit our op nion to the opinion of the majority (so far we mean as to obey that opinion whilst it is the constitutional law, though we should in speculation retain our own), we may as well throw a knapsack on our back, and march for hwith out of all human communities Let us teach every man, woman, and child in the country what and how great a thing law is; let us confess that it stands rooted in the soil of human reason-stands by no permission of this or that sectarian, but this or that sectarian stands here, and can preach and teach, by virtue of the protection it extends to all."

LATEST NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER. We have a week's later news from Europe. Nothing further had transpired in the Crimea. The commercial news is favorable. The weather was good for the crops in Great Britain. So it was on the departure of the steamer preceding this. The failure of the crops is on the continent, but the advices by this steamer say nothing about it.

D1. Oliver Wendell Holmes commences his course of lectures before the "Young Men's Association," this (Tuesday) evening, the 11th inst., in the Walnut Street Baptist Church. Subject, "Wordsworth." The price of tickets ($1 for the course of six lectures, or 25 cents for single tickets) places it within the power of all to hear this distinguished "Wit, Poet, and Scholar."

NEW ALBANY AND SALEM RAILROAD .- This road carries passengers to St. Louis, via Greencastle, Terre Haute, and Vincennes, in as short time as they are carried by any other route. The fare is $11.

This road also runs two daily trains to Chicago, without change of cars or baggage. The fare is $7, which is cheaper than by any other route.

We have lately traveled over this road, and found it in good condition for a new road. Its officers and conductors are accommodating gentlemen, and every effort is made to render passengers comfortable. Passing both ways between Chicago and Louisville, the connections were in all cases made in good time. Safety, comfort, and close connections may be relied upon with confidence upon this route. Improvements are constantly being made on the road, and it will be soon equal in every respect to the best roads in the country. It passes through an interesting region, and we cordially recommend it to those going West or Northwest.

CARD WRITING .- Mr. Levin S. Zarr has sent us some specimens of his card writing. They are beautifully executed and show a perfection in the art to which we scarcely believed it possible for any man to attain. Every imaginable style of writing may be obtained with as much if not greater accuracy, neatness, and grace than by means of an engraved plate. Mr. Zarr is at the Galt House, and will promptly execute any orders for card writing with which he may

A gold breastpin, with a 1 keness in it, was lost last night by a young lady in going home from Eureka Hall on Market street out Fourth to Chestnut and taen to Thirteenth. The pin is greatly prized as a family relic, and if the finder will make himself known to us he shall have the satisfaction of returning it to the owner in person and receiving the thanks and beaming smiles of a very beautiful young lady.

The amount of coal shipped from Pittsburg for the year ending on the 31st of August 4ast was 14,547,325 bushels.

The number of interments at New Orleans for the week ending on the 2d was 407, of which 301 were of yellow fever. The Picayune of the 5th says:

The number of deaths is less by sixty-four than those of the preceding week, which were ten less than those of the week before. This is a steady diminution at an increased rate, which gives confidence to the opinion we find expressed every where, that the disease has passed the culminating point and is surely and from this sign rapidly abating.

During the week ending on the 1st there were 18 interments in Baton Rouge, fifteen being yellow fever cases.

There had been four deaths from yellow fever at Mobile for the week ending on the 5th.

The Vicksburg Whig, of the 1st, comes to us in mourning for its editor, Rufus K. Arthur, Esq., who died on the preceding day. Mr. A. was an officer in the Mexican war and a vigorous writer. The following paragraphs we copy from the Whig:

From the very best information we can get we learn that but one death (Mr. Francis Rockwell) has occurred since our last issue, from yellow fever, and our physicians, with whom we have conversed, inform us that no new case has occurred in the last twenty-four hours up to last we learn that yellow fever has made its ap-pearance at Cooper's Well. Dr. Pugh is reported to be down with it, and we hear of two others who are said to be ill with all the symptoms of the fever. Nearly all the visitors left yesterday morning, and we are informed the Well will close to-morrow. The greater por-tion of the recent visitors to the Well have taken refuge at the Mississippi Springs.

We are informed that yellow fever has made its appearance both at Grand Gulf and Port .Gibson. Several cases are said to be under treatment at the latter place.

WHOLESALE POISONING.—We hear from two or three sources of a poisoning affair which occurred near Danceyville, in Haywood county, Tenn., on Thursday night last. A party was given at the house of Mr. McIntesh, and after supper nearly all the persons who had partaken were attacked in the usual manner incident to cases of poisoning-some mildly and others violently. It is supposed that poison was contained in some of the ingredients of the cake used on the occasion, though it is not ascertained whether it is the result of accident or design No one is suspected. The number of persons attacked is variously estimated at from forty to seventy—white and black. One or two had as we learn, and others were expected to The wife of Mr. McIntosh was among the sufferers, and also Dr. McFarland, and Mrs. Richmond.—Memphis Evening News.

The facts elicited are, that the child was born Sunday night in a stable where it was concealed by its mother, who returned to her room and left it approtected. PITTSBURG, Sept. 10. Astounding developments transpired on Saturday in regard to extensive larcenies of old railroad iron belonging to the State works, amounting altogether to $16,000. One of the laborers in the employ of a second-hand dealer named Henry Nichols, sued for his wages, and while before the justice gave hints implicating Nichols and several others living along the line. Information was sent to the canal commissioner, at whose instance twenty-six persons were arrested and committed to our jail. Thirteen barrels of broken iron have been recovered, with a prospect of getting 30 more. It is said that nearly everybody living along the line of the road are engaged in thefts.

ST. Louis, Sept. 10. Gov. Shannon arrived at Westport on the 31st, was serenaded, and made a speech. He re-gretted to see a disposition in certain parts of the territory to nullify the laws of the late Le-gislature. He regarded that assembly as legal, gislature. its laws binding, and should exert his authority to enforce them. He said he was in favor of slavery in Kansas.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10.

The Norfolk boat brings tidings that there is no abatement of the fever, and that the small pox has also broken out, of which there were ten cases Saturday. Two nurses from this city are dead. Dr. Bryant, from Philadelphia, is dying. The fever is spreading to the adjoining country. At Norfolk on Friday there were 40 deaths from yellow fever, and on Saturday up to noon there had been 25 deaths. At Portsmouth on Friday there were 22 deaths and 50 new cases. On Saturday up to noon there had been 15 deaths. Dr. Morris, of this city, is sick, and Dr. Marshall was dying. Seventy tents were sent down from this city on Friday under the direction of the mayor and council, which were pitched on the site of the Old Point, a beautiful aud healthy site. The American flag was raised, and it was expected that a steamboat load of refugees would land there this morning.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. The weekly average statement of the banks of his city shows a decrease of $163,000 in loans, $846,000 in specie, $614,000 in deposits, and an increase of $240,000 of circulation.

The steamship Empire City from Aspinwall arrived about noon with California mails of Aug. 18. She brings 360 passengers and $790, 000 in treasure, principally consigned as follows:

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10. We have no later intelligence from Norfolk this morning. The steamship Franklin, which brought the yellow fever to Portsmouth, and which circumstance is believed to have been the origin of the pestilence at Portsmouth and Norof such a denomination, to justify their being folk, has arrived below in the Chesapeake. It is supposed she will not come up to the city. Quite an excitement has been occasioned on the Point by the report of her being below, and threats have been made to destroy her if she approaches the city.

> PIGEON SHOOTING—Mr. King's Challenge Accepted.—N. Y, Aug. 25.—The challenge issued in this day's Spirit of the Times, has been accepted by Blanton Duncan, Esq., a gentleman from Louisville, Ky. The arrangements will be published in a future number. The match is for $10,000, a side (20,000 the match); $5,000 a side (or $10,000 the match); to be shot at the Red House grounds, N. Y., on or about the 10th of September, and $10,000 to be shot at Louisville, Ky, at 75 double shots each, (150 birds): 21 vards rise and 100 fall, $1,250 a side to be deposited in the hands of the publisher of the Spirit, as a forfeit, this week, and a day set for the first great match. Much excitement prevails at this monster match. Both gentlemen are of the same cast of muscular power, Mr. Duncan being some six or seven years younger than his opponent-in the neighborhood of 26 whilst Mr. King has the advantage in height and reach; both have a quick, hazel eye, and the movement of each, that is impulsive movements, are similar—both are fit to shoot for a man's

Mr. Duncan has a host of admirers and backers from the far West; he has made excellent shooting in Natchez previously, and his friends are sanguine and eager to test their man against any one man living. As to Mr. King, he has backers to $40,000 or $50,000. The great shooting lately chronicled and performed by him needs no further comment. He is from Augusta, Georgia-therefore the match will be "Georgia vs. Old Kentucky." Both States wil be ably represented, as far as a good shot is concerned.

Further particulars will be coming in the end of this week. The betting here is in favor of King, but little done. The Kentucky gentlemen will be here in a week, and they will back their man right and left. The match will be of the most gentlemanly order, characteristic to each party where the love of fair play prevails.

We find the above in a Georgia paper. It is incorrect as to the place where the match is to take place. Cincinnati has been fixed on,

FROM KANSAS.-The excellent Kansas correspondent of the Missouri Republican thus sums up the doings of the Kansas Legislature:

At least 50 territorial roads have been established this session. The expense of locating, marking out, and constructing them will be paid by the counties through which they pass. The taxation, I should think, will be heavy in the territory for several vears to come. This evil however, is compensated by the superior advantages for making fortunes rapidly that early settlers enjoy over latter day emigrants.

There are no usury laws in Kansas. No Freesoiler, unless he take an oath to suport the fugitive slave law and Kansas-Nebras ka bill, can hold any office of profit or honor in this territory. He cannot be a Councillor, Rep-resentative, Sergent-at-Arms, Doorkeeper of the Assembly, Public Printer, Clerk to the Legislature, County Commissioner. Probate Judge Sheriff, militia officer, lawyer, public notary, or if challenged, a voter!

Common schools have been established.

Death penalties have been enacted for all at-tempts to interfere with slave property—as decoving negroes from their masters, &c.

The promulgation of abolition or Freesoil opinions is to be punished by two years' imprisonment with hard labor in the penitentiary, af-

Common law has been established in this territory. The Louisiana married woman's rights bill was rejected by the Council, in consequence of the House amendment, exempting householders to the amount of $1,000 real estate and $500 in personal estate.

On the 29th of August there was a pro-slavery convention held in the hall of the Kanzas House of Representatives. Two hundred persons were present. Dr. Stringfellow "ruled the roost." The object of the convention was to nominate a candidate for delegate to Co gress from Kansas. Gen. Whitfield, the present delegate, was nominated. The Missouri Democrat says this was "Know-Nothing pro-slavery nomination." He was formerly a Benton Democrat, but when Atchison & Co. became Know-Nothings, he after some hesitation, concluded to go along with them. The Missonri Democrat says that if he had remained true to his Democratic principles he was apprised in advance that he would be sunported by the Democratic convention which is soon to assemble, and which will of course nominate a candida'e in opposition to him.

The closing scenes of the Legislature were decidedly rich and characteristic. In the House a resolution was reported requiring the President of the council to furnish a demijohn of brandy for the use of the members. Dr. String-fellow reported a substitute, that the members of the House of Representatives furnish twenty cents each to buy two quarts of red-eye for the use of the members of the council—as the old fogies of that body only drank whisky, and never that unless treated by the members of the House of Representatives. This was adopted and the twenty cent tax leviel. But cigars were purchased instead of whisky.

Under date of Aug. 31st, the Democrat's corespondent writes:

By a law just passed the House will have 30 members next session The extra session, if one be called, will most probably meet a Leavenworth. Three Universities have been established near Lecompte, at Fort Scott and Leavenworth, and a Medical College at the Capital.— All the members except two, who have accepted offices, have left the Mission, and nearly all have departed homeward from Kansas. tional enrolling clerks were employed yesterday, and every bill passed was signed.

[Woodson, Secretary of the Territory, being acting Governor in the interval between the removal of Reeder and the arrival of Shannon, signed the bills as Governor. Thus the removal of Reeder has answered the purpose of Stringfellow perfectly.]

Gen'l Whitefield's speech to the convention is fully reported in the Democrt. It is in some respects significant.

Chickering's Parlor Grand Pianos,

BRAINARD BROTHERS Jacob's Block, 74 Fourth street, near Main.

The Parlor Grand is the very perfection of all Grand Pianoe, and is particularly adapted to the wants of professors, amaturs, and other wants of professors amaturs. And other wants of professors amaturs and other services who may object to the great size of a Full Grand.

Grand.

The nnique and beautiful style of this instrument and its perfect fitness for the parler are commendations that will not apply to the ordinary Grand Piano. For, while it combines the tone, power, action, and appearance of a Full Grand, it has the delicate touch of chickering's Square Pianos, acknowledged by every one superior to any other, and, though of seven ectave compass, is still smaller in size than the semi-Grand Pianos of 6% octaves, as it occupies but little more space than a 7 octave Square Piano.

The peculiar and compact constanction of the farler Grand, an invention of the intelligent and the complete success of this new and truly beautiful instrument fully sustains the reputation of its inventor and manufacturers.

We have already sold several of these instruments in this city, and, to meet the increased domand for them, have arranged for a constant supply.

To these snjert Piano-Fortes we invite the attention of the public. Those in want of a Grand Piano should examine the Parlor Grand before purchasing. They are made only by Chickering & Sons, and can be had only of ourselves in this city, also private the stream of the public.
